

Ecloid* Confidentiality Policy

ECLOID*'S COMMITMENT

Ecloid* values the protection of users' personal information. The following Confidentiality Policy aims at informing users about the safety measures taken by Ecloid* to protect the personal information they provide on the platform. In this policy, the word users refers to the project promoters, the supporters and the visitors.

PERSONAL INFORMATION

Ecloid* does not sell nor disclose, under no circumstances, users' personal information to a third party unless it is legally compelled to disclose information for safety, income tax or fraud prevention reasons.

A very restricted number of Ecloid* employees have access to users' personal information (except for banking information) and each and every one is subject to rules and policies in this area.

TRANSACTIONS AND PAYMENTS

All banking transactions are made through PayPal. Transactions are secured by a SSL Certificate. Ecloid* does not handle any financial transaction. The platform's administrators and users absolutely do not have access to banking information, credit card numbers or PayPal account information.

Ecloid* invites users to read PayPal's Terms of Use for more details.

VOLUNTARY POSTINGS

In order to create an Ecloid* profile, users must provide their name, given name and email address. The information on their profile page is public. Users can modify their information, make it confidential or delete it if they want to.

All the information and content voluntarily posted by users is public and can be used by other people. Users are therefore encouraged to be vigilant. Ecloid* is not responsible for information disclosed by users on the platform.

EMAILS

Through the platform's internal messaging system, users receive emails regarding the projects they are supporting or following. They can manage their inbox options, such as the automatic reception of those emails, by changing the messaging settings.

Although Ecloid* may occasionally send general emails for platform-related notices, the platform is committed to limiting such emails.

SUCCESSFUL PROJECTS

By agreeing with this Confidentiality Policy and the Terms of Use, users accept that the platform disclose their user name and email address to the project promoter they supported so that he or she can contact them and send their rewards once the project reaches its goal.

MODIFICATIONS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Ecloid* has the right to change the Confidentiality Policy at all times. Users will either be advised of the changes made to the Confidentiality Policy by email or the modifications will be posted on the platform's website.

Ecloid* is committed to protecting the information provided by users on the platform; however, Ecloid* shall not be liable to anyone for events or situations beyond its control.

QUESTIONS

For any question in terms of information protection or regarding this Confidentiality Policy, users can contact one of Ecloid*'s staff members at the following address: info@ecloid.com.

Ecloid*

De l'idée au projet